

Do it Yourself Tech from Moto-Services.net

“Learning the Why behind the What”

Matthew Wiley

Moto-Services.net

623-363-1267

m.wiley@moto-services.net

MOTO-SERVICES.NET

How many times have you wondered how something on your bike works? Perhaps you know how a component works, but wonder why it works the way it does? How do we get accurate information? Are we even willing to ask? Fear of not understanding the answer or worse yet appearing stupid or ignorant are common reasons not to ask.

Perhaps you have received incorrect answers to questions in the past & are frustrated. Many technicians & Dealerships won't share technical information, they paid dearly in one way or another to get it and make their living from it. Did you know most mechanics are paid only by commission?

This May 19 & 20th Race Tech's Technical Edge Suspension Seminars will be taking place in Phoenix, an awesome opportunity to gain real & quality information. Knowledge that not only helps you to understand how your bike works, but why it works the way it does. Facilitated by Paul Thede, Race Tech owner & product designer, hard earned & closely guarded information is presented in a manner any enthusiast can understand. Knowledge that not only will improve your suspension understanding but can be applied to your riding skills as well! If you are excited with what you learned, an Advanced Seminar on June 2-3rd picks up where the Theory Class left off & takes your learning to the next level.

Consider this rare opportunity for real, practical & accurate information, the 'Why behind the What' of how your Motorcycle works!